Here he was several times attacked by the savages, and on one or two occasions was badly injured by gun shot wounds. Here it was he got the name "Old Hill," which was given him by emigrants, and others who had never seen him, but who took it for granted that no one but an old mountaineer who had spent at least a quarter of a cen tury trapping in the Rocky Mountains would dare to expose himself thus among will be found—in fact it may prove splendid type of American manhood, will again put his foot on the soil of his native superior to other mines of which more is hostile Indians. The many parrow escapes, and ludierous positions in which he was placed, during his solitary residence of two or three years on the banks of the Owyhee, would, if written up as he is so eminently fit to do it, make an amusing and interesting book. It was during this residence that he began to exercise his taient as a writer, in the capacity of correspondent of the Avalanche; he and Joe having been previously hill or mountain of quartz, bearing the rosequeinted in Idaho City, where Hill, though mantic name of Hiawatha, after the mythican General, who saved this fair and glo-Boise News.

The Red Bluff Sentinel of the 11th, edited by "Old Abe" Townsend, a most uncompromising Democrat and apologist for Secession, rebellion and every other purely democratic principle, says;-

This speech has called forth the just indignation of the citizens of San Francisco. The ignorant brute who seems to lose what little sense he has as he grows older, should have his mouth closed so strongly that all the demons of the lower regions would not be able to open it. A prominent man traveling in the capacity of a free American upon him from the most powerful Kingdoms and Empires on the face of the earth, should not be siurred by the words from the foul-mouthed ravings of a demented fool. The people of San Erancisco have dared Kearney to do the act he threatens. Late advices from London say that Lord Lytton has resigned his high office of Vice of India, and that he will shortly retire in favor of Lord Dufferin, late Governor cago, examined the advantages Cherry Washington to Mar'cet and Market out to General of the Dominion of Canada, and at present Ambassador to the Court of St. Petersburg. Lord Dufferin has been, probably, the most uniformly successful Britis diplomat of our day, and promotion has borne a corresponding ratio to his merit. Earl Beaconsfield's penchant for brilliant men, is well known, and it would be dfficult to point out a more fitting successor than Lord Dufferin to Lord Lytton. The latter, it is surmised, prefers the flowery paths of literature to the uncongenial tasks of diplomacy or Oriental administration. "Owen Meredith" can well afford to retire upon his laurels, and the "Star of India" will be supplemented by his elevation in the pecrage to an earldom.
